PLS young ones get outdoors with Forest School

The youngest group of Project Learn School students have been trying out a new curriculum concept this year: Forest School.

Forest School is a world-wide movement that gets students out of classrooms and into the woods. It incorporates math, science, ecology and literacy, with an overarching goal of nurturing teamwork, problem solving and self-reflection. Advocates of the Forest School movement say that being outdoors markedly improves students’ ability to self-regulate emotionally and to learn, both in and out of the classroom.

An excerpt from a December 2015 blog entry provides a peek into how Project Learn has adapted this concept.

December 23, 2015

Our last Forest School experience of 2015 also marked our first time in the Wissahickon Valley, or the “real wild,” as some of the children put it.

We made our way from the drop-off location down to the creek. Upon arrival at base camp, some children got to work immediately building things in the sand, while others discovered that a giant boulder could also be a slide.

Several of children got the hang of skipping stones across the creek and watched as James’ mom, Louise, found the perfect stone and managed somewhere near a dozen consecutive skips.

After a snack break, complete with hot tea, we headed up towards the woods for a hike. Just as we were getting started, two horses and their riders crossed our path and we had a chance to greet the massive creatures up close.

As we continued on, many of the children found walking sticks to carry or drag with them. After noticing the marks the sticks made on the trail it was discovered that if you spun around with the stick on the ground it made a perfect circle, much like a compass on paper.

Leaving behind several circles, we turned onto a smaller trail that led us up higher and away from the creek. After an impromptu break for some rock climbing and to look at some bugs, we continued on for about 1.5 miles in total, looping back around to base camp for lunch.

Continued on page 2
Forest School; Continued from page 1

We concluded our day with a sharing circle, and after some last-second splashing at the water’s edge, we headed back out of the valley to be picked up.

This first trip to the Wissahickon was also the first Forest School experience with genuine discomfort for some of the children. Getting through this discomfort took patience and trust in the adults as they modeled how to respond to being damp and cold while out in the woods, but by the end of the day, the children’s willingness and fortitude led to smiles and insight as they reflected on their experiences. May there be many more such opportunities in the new year!

---

Congratulations to our eighth graders!

We wish you all the best as you graduate from Project Learn School and join the ranks of alumni! This year’s class is headed off to the following high schools:

- Nya Hardin - Charter High School for Architecture & Design (CHAD)
- Ian Holbrook - Central High School
- Evan Kerr - Springfield High School
- Fae Lobron - Philadelphia High School for Creative and Performing Arts (CAPA)
- Mephki Lopez – Undecided; either Woodlynde or Saul H.S.
- Penny Rhoads - Philadelphia High School for Creative and Performing Arts (CAPA)
- Evan Spann - Roman Catholic High School
- Tia Yancey - Central High School

---

Project Learn School is an independent cooperative school for students in grades K-8. Situated in the historic Philadelphia neighborhood of Mt. Airy, PLS maximizes the many resources available in a dynamic urban setting.

At Project Learn School, teachers, students and parents work together to create a progressive and humanistic community that promotes mutual respect, involvement and curiosity.

The Project Learn School Newsletter is an occasional newsletter published for alumni and friends of Project Learn School. To submit alumni news, please write to us at alumni@projectlearnschool.org.

6525 Germantown Avenue
Philadelphia, PA 19119
215-438-3623
www.projectlearnschool.org

---

This year’s eighth graders in Costa Rica: Evan Kerr, Mephki Lopez, Evan Spann, Ian Holbrook, Nya Hardin, Tia Yancey, Fae Lobron, Penelope Rhoads
Tess on the Trail

By Tess Liebersohn, PLS alumni (1995-2000); sent in from the Trail.

My first memory of camping features a huge vat of macaroni and cheese at the annual PL camping trip at Ricketts Glen State Park. It was the late 90s, and having that much access to mac and cheese was the highlight of my trip, even more than the swimming, games, and ghost stories told around the campfire.

Over 15 years later, mac and cheese is still an important part of my current lifestyle; I eat it at least three nights a week as I attempt a 5-month thru hike of the Appalachian Trail. As I write this, I am a little over 500 miles into a trek that will last 2189 miles from Georgia to Maine. I have a lot of boxes of mac and cheese in my future (and other dehydrated foods!).

I first encountered the AT in 2006 when I hiked 60 miles of the New Jersey portion the summer after my sophomore year at Central High School. It was a short trip, and I was intrigued by the thru-hikers who hiked for 15 hours a day and still had a strong zest for the woods. "Why not me?" I thought. I put "Hike the whole Appalachian Trail" on my bucket list and promptly forgot about it.

After attending the University of Pittsburgh and having adventures in France, California, and North Carolina, the Trail came calling again last year. My heart and mind yearned for some time away from the crushes of “civilization,” as it were, and a 5-month trek in the woods seemed like the perfect opportunity to learn about many things: nature, solitude, self-reliance, challenge, and all of the unknowns that would come up between Springer Mountain, GA, and Mount Katahdin, ME. It was also perfectly timed as my last adventure before starting graduate school in school counseling at the University of Pennsylvania in the fall.

"Why not me?" became “I'm doing it!” as I spent a year researching gear and training. On March 5, 2016, I started my hike.

Continued on page 4

Alumni of (musical) note

PLS alumni Caeli Smith, co-principal viola of the Juilliard Orchestra, performed in the Penderecki Viola Concerto in October with Case Scaglione conducting.

Caeli holds a bachelor’s degree in violin performance from The Juilliard School and is currently completing a master’s degree in viola performance.

Two other PLS alumni, Alfia White and Lauren Stander, were in attendance. Lauren and Alfia now live in Brooklyn; Caeli lives in Manhattan.
The first month, I faced ill-fitting shoes, lonely nights in shelters, and growing doubts about my ability to carry 35 pounds of gear, food and water, every day for 150 days. I averaged 10 miles and one blister per day. I couldn’t believe how... hard it was to just put one foot in front of the other, over and over.

After two weeks off to refocus and let some minor foot tendonitis heal, my attitude toward the Trail improved dramatically. Since returning, I went up two shoe sizes and dozens of mountains. I drank (filtered) water from streams and springs in three different states. I can do a full resupply for four days’ worth of food in 20 minutes for $20. I motivate myself over 2000-foot changes in elevation with some choice phrases, and then high-five the nearest tree when it’s over. I wake each morning happy to know that there will be new miles, landscapes, plants, pains, friends, and another sunset by the day’s end, and that I can handle it all. I average 16 miles a day and shower once a week at hostels. I’ve lost those doubts, along with two toenails.

I am doing this hike alone and have been continually impressed by the kindness and generosity of other hikers and Trail community members. Limping into a shelter and encountering smiles and warm greetings from trail friends makes even the most strenuous 20-mile day feel like a walk in the woods. The only “weapon” I carry is a small knife, which I have only used once to cut cheese. I have not felt unsafe once. The only time I saw a bear, it was a little cub, running away from me.

I’ve heard that the Trail never actually gets easy. I’m not worried, however. The next time it gets tough, I’ll look around at the trees, say a blessing of gratitude to my heroic feet, and take a step. Left, right, left, right...

Happy trails,
Tess Liebersohn
(trail name: Rocky, like Balboa)
Thank you, donors!

45th Anniversary Celebrations
Thank you to everyone who joined us for the PLS 45th anniversary party on December 12 at the Manayunk Brewery. Special appreciation to Humbleman Band for providing entertainment, to Lisa Pack and her committee for planning the event, and to everyone who donated to our silent auction.

Alum Greg Prestegord donated a painting to the school in honor of our 45th anniversary. You can see his work at http://gregoryprestegord.com/ The painting is on display at Project Learn and is for sale; please contact Roni if you are interested in purchasing this painting.

Our donor list is sometimes incomplete – but this is because of our broad base of supporters raising funds for PLS in a variety of ways. If you contributed to PLS this year and your name is not on this list, be sure to let us know so that we can properly appreciate your gift.

Thank you also to the many people who donate time, talents and love to PLS. We are grateful that you choose to engage in this work with us!

Gifts were given in honor of:
- Dylan
- Shayma Dorsey Brooks
- Martha Hansen Fertman
- Jane Laties
- Lucy Miller
- Alexis Tanner
- Morris Waxman

Gifts were given in memory of:
- Nancy Bailey
- Marc Barag
- Jose Filamore
- Gregory Johnson
- Irene Melnyk
- James Miller
- Lila Rudnick
- Paul Shane
- Dan Stroiman

Individual Donors:
The Goodmans
Joshua Goldblum & Debbie Fishman
Martha Fertman
Lucy Miller
Elizabeth Steuble & Edward Johnson
Mady Cantor
Dan & Deb Cantu-Hertzler
Joshua Goldblum & Debbie Fishman
Pamela Johnson
Amy Rudnick
Buckley Sandler LLP
Beverly Zeldin
Bailey, Murphy, & Scarano LLC
Christine Gromala
Steven Gremminger & Linda Noonan
Teresa Pesce
Robert Felsenfeld
Myron Lehman
David Kahn
Frank DuLuca
Jeri Greenberg
Carol Newman
Charles Berk
Amy Kim
Spencer Casper
Kenneth Stinger
Ellen Rudnick
Vonne Craver
Anne Corridan
David Raim
Judith Laufman
Brian Clew
Pamela Deardon
Margo Tank
Andrew Zeldin
Randy Zeldin
Burt Braverman
Thomas McMann
Julie Copeland
Gabriella Ibieta
Rita Lawless
Carolyn Johnson & Don Goldkamp
Dan Orlock
Lucy & Steve Stroiman
Joanne Shane Plummer
Ralph Moore & Bridget Buck
Jeff & Carol Roth
Noah Fertman
Kathleen McKinley
Beth Samuelson
Jane Gering
Arthur & Diane Nevins
Art & Trish Miron
Elizabeth Hale
Michael Levin

Aurora Gold
Irv Ackelsberg & Patricia Urevick
Sara Allender & Ron Chamrin
Ana Shane
Myra Rosenberg & Larry Glass
Daniel & Hilary Hellerbach
Rodney & Nancy Johnson
Michael Doddy
Irv & Sharon Shapiro
David & Robin Ingram
Jane Moore
Alice George
James Martin
Tresa Grauer & Avi Kaplan
Rhonda & David Kutzik
Daniel Halevy & Susan Stewart
Judy Eady
Karen Rothschild
Kate & Arthur Hochner
Buck Buchanan & Elizabeth Vander Veer
Shaak
Amy Rudnick & Michael Zeldin
Margaret Graham & Alex Moss
Netta & Brian Dickerson
John & Catharine Fisher
Laurence Miller
Ruth Beury
Tommie Ann McNeil & Jamal T Johnson

Continued on page 6
Staff News

Project Learn School is sad to share that three teachers will leave the school this spring. Liam Gallagher, Sean Leber and Jason Alexander will depart for new challenges after this school year ends.

Liam is in his seventh year as the PLS science teacher. He also took on the Educational Coordinator responsibilities for the past two years. He is leaving to become the director of the IDEA Center (Innovation, Discovery, Engineering and Arts) at a private school near Kennett Square.

Sean and joined PLS in the 2013-2014 school year. Sean teaches math for Junior High and Lisa’s Group. After three years with PLS he has decided to pursue a career in website design and programming.

Jason also came to PLS in 2013-2014, offering his support to PLS on a volunteer basis. His official title for 2015-2016 was Teaching Fellow but in practice, Jason stepped in to meet needs as diverse as wiring the PA system; teaching a student-centered inquiry-based philosophy program; designing the school website; and teaching Math and English.

Students, parents and teaching colleagues will all miss these three gentle souls. We wish them well on their new adventures!

Pictured above: Teacher Liam Gallagher engaging with Marcus and Sergie. Middle: Sean Leber the Wookie, helping students prepare for the Halloween festivities, shown with Shayla the “Minion.” Bottom: Jason Alexander.

---

Donors; Continued from page 6

Nava Szwergold
Emily Hale-Sills
Lucy and Steve Stroiman
Joanne Shane Plummer
Dominick & Rosemary Giordano
Jerald Fagliano & Mara Natkins
Susan & Morris Klein
Kate & Alan Ayers
Huntly Collins & Esther Miller
Bud Alcock & Molly McLaughlin
Marge Richman
Charline & Willie Kent
Dove Nasir
Melissa Klein & Neysa Nevins
Joanne & John Kerr
Pat & Becky Stone
Gerard & Catherine Schweiger
Anonymous
Anthony & Lauren Puccia
Aunt Mayleen
Bridget Mitchell
Bruce & Linda Pollack-Johnson
Charla
Charles Day
Craig Russell
Dan & Molly Melloh
Dom Del
Dove
Eric & Rachel
Erin Stoll
Evon Kerr
Evon Spann
Francine Strauss
Grandpa & Granny Doe
Hana Rab
Heather & Krister
Ian Holbrook
Jerry & Donna Allender
John & Joanne Kerr
John & Sarah
John Day
Judy Leatherman
Kevin Birley
Kevin Gallagher
L. Robinson
Laurance Rosenzweig
Liam Gallagher
Linda McAleer/Maitlon Russell
Liz Day
Lucy Miller
Maggie Garrity
Majka Seawright
Michael McKlaine
Molly & Dominic
Pat Desanto
Patricia McGlone
Peter Logan
Rose & Larry Gallagher
Sean & Deborah Kerr
Sergey & Niko
Shannon Brown
Sheri Davis-Faulkner
Shontee McMillan
Stephen P. Gallagher
Tanza Aliberti
The Days
Tresa & Avi
Uncle Ed & Aunt Karen
Vincent Gallagher
Wayne & Kathy Arsenault
Wendy Romig

---

We want to hear from you!

Share with us about what you and yours are up to! Write to us at alumni@projectlearnschool.org; send photos, too! We will publish your news in the next issue of the PLS newsletter.
Join Project Learn’s Alumni/Alumni Parent Committee! Committee members guide, develop, and support alumni activities and encourage fellow alumni to participate. All persons are welcome, regardless of whether you were with the school one year or many! To get involved, email alumni@projectlearnschool.org and be sure to join our Facebook Group – the link can found on the Alumni tab of our website, www.projectlearnschool.org.

Why we give to Project Learn

By Melissa Klein and Neysa Nevins

Our son Tani is finishing third grade Project Learn School and looks forward to going to school each day. We appreciate the way Project Learn supports the development of his courage, creativity, and values, along with the more traditional subjects. We are blessed with extra funds to donate, and we have decided to make Project Learn a priority for our giving because we value this kind of education and want to support the ability for families with less means to send their children to Project Learn. Supporting Project Learn is an investment in our present and our future. Please consider joining us in supporting Project Learn, at whatever level you are able. Each dollar makes a difference in this small school with a budget of under $1 million, funded primarily by tuition dollars. We are grateful to all the families who have given of their time and money through the past 45 years to sustain Project Learn.

Please join Melissa and Neysa in saying:

Yes! I will help keep curiosity thriving at Project Learn School!

- Donate online at www.projectlearnschool.org. Click the “Support Us” tab.
- Clip this out and mail it with a check to us at: Project Learn School 6525 Germantown Ave Philadelphia PA 19118
- Call Melissa at 215-510-2172 about giving through Pennsylvania’s tax credit programs for businesses, or through stocks, securities, or your estate.
- Ask your employer to match your gift. Company name: _________________

- Volunteer! Project Learn needs your talents, too! Contact Roni Anton at info@projectlearnschool.org to inquire about volunteering.
- Give ☐ in honor or ☐ in memory of someone special: _______________________

I am: ☐ Parent of student(s) ☐ Parent of alumni
☐ Alumni ☐ Friend
☐ Grandparent of student or alumni

Please use my gift for:
☐ Tuition assistance ☐ PLS’s most pressing need
☐ Arts ☐ Science
☐ Other: _______________________

Project Learn School is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. Donations are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law. Project Learn School does not share donor information with anyone. If you would like your name to remain anonymous in the school’s public acknowledgment of donors, please check here: ☐

Melissa serves as development chair. Please give her a call if you would like to discuss making a gift to the school (215-510-2172).
You are invited to the 2nd annual alumni reunion picnic!

June 18, 2016
4:00 to 7:00 PM
at Project Learn School

All alumni, parent-alumni and current families are welcome! Kids’ activities, food & non-alcoholic drinks provided; adults may BYOB.

Suggested donation: $20/adult